

*"No way! No more! No more tests!
Yes, he may be different, he may be able to talk and he may be magic but
even if he is, there is no reason to treat
him any differently."*

Penny finally refuses to allow any more testing to be done on the talking pea. Can you write three powerful arguments that Penny could (or does) make to persuade people that the pea deserves to be eaten.

1.

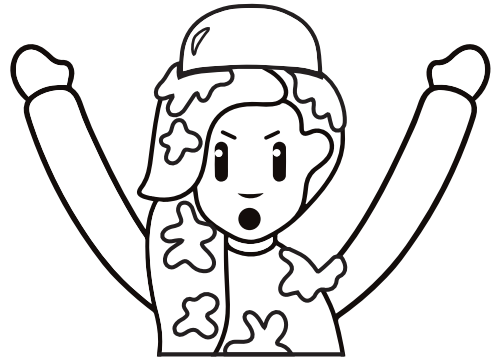

2.

3.

Penny is the pea's ally, which means she argues that we should listen to his wishes and that he should be treated fairly. Can you think of any groups of people who are treated unfairly and deserve to have an ally in real life?

.....

*"No way! No more! No more tests!
Yes, he may be different, he may be
able to talk and he may be magic but
even if he is, there is no reason to treat
him any differently."*

Penny finally refuses to allow any more testing to be done on the talking pea. Can you write three powerful arguments that Penny could (or does) make to persuade people that the pea deserves to be eaten.

1.

2.

3.

Penny is the pea's ally, which means she argues that we should listen to his wishes and that he should be treated fairly. Can you think of any groups of people who are treated unfairly and deserve to have an ally in real life?

.....